

Your Innate Personality Reading

Zackie

Your four pillars of destiny are:

Hour	Day	Month	Year	Season
Wood ⁺	Fire ⁻	Earth ⁻	Fire ⁺	White Tiger (Metal)
Dragon	Snake	Pig	Rat

Year:

The year is what you are inherited with. You have the year of the FIRE RAT. This is what you have inherited from your family

Month:

The month is your elder self. You have the month of the EARTH PIG. This is where your wisdom comes from

Day:

The day is your social self. You have the day of the FIRE SNAKE. This is where your youthfulness comes from

Hour:

The hour is your natural self. You have the hour of the WOOD DRAGON. This is where your natural self comes from

Season:

The season is your ruler. You have the season of the WHITE TIGER. This is what rules your Pillars of Destiny

Energy:

Your Pillars of Destiny has 2 Yin(-) and 2 Yang(+). This means your masculine and feminine energy are balanced

Your MBTI is:

INFJ-A, this means that you are Introverted, iNtuitive, Feeling, Judging, and Assertive

I:

You are introverted over extroverted. You gain energy by yourself rather than by others

N:

You are intuitive over observant. You use your intuition more than what you observe around you

F:

You are a feeler over thinker. You use your feelings more than your thinking to make your decisions

J:

You are judging over prospective. You tend to be more decisive rather than flexible in life

A:

You are assertive over turbulent. You tend to be more assertive rather than turbulent in your life

Analysis

White Tiger:

The WHITE TIGER rules over metal. Metal stands for autumn, the west, Venus, whiteness, dusk, and dry weather. Negative traits: grief and lack of self worth. Positive traits: reverence, righteousness, self worth, empathy, and altruism. This determines your A from INFJ-A

Fire Rat in YEAR:

The FIRE RAT is a rat that has creative intelligence. They like to think creatively. With the added season of the White Tiger, FIRE RAT is self-reliant and resilient, yet can be ambitious and cunning. This is a fox. You have inherited the creative spark of the fox. This is where you get your J from INFJ-A

Earth Pig in MONTH:

The EARTH PIG is a pig that is down to earth. They like to be patient and thoughtful. With the added season of the White Tiger, EARTH PIG can uncover roots of the past, the person, and are full of Zen, yet can suffer from grief and lack of self worth. This is a boar. Your elder self and inner wisdom comes from the patient thoughtfulness of the boar. This is where you get your N from INFJ-A

Fire Snake in DAY:

The FIRE SNAKE is a snake that is spontaneous. They like to rely on their instincts and natural senses. With the added season of the White Tiger, FIRE SNAKE can undergo metamorphosis, yet can change the mood of the environment around them. This is a snake. Your social self and inner youthfulness comes from the spontaneous nature of the snake. This is where you get your F from INFJ-A

Wood Dragon in HOUR:

The WOOD DRAGON is a dragon that breathes life. They like to be surrounded by nature and all things green. With the added season of the White Tiger, WOOD DRAGON can feed others self worthiness, empathy, altruism, faith, and protection, yet can feel drained and dry, and can take away life. This is a theropod dinosaur. You are naturally life giving like a theropod. This is where you get your I from INFJ-A

Analysis, part 2

Your four animals are: Fox, Boar, Snake, and Theropod

Continent: Asia

Fox in Asia is identified as fox species in present day

Boar in Asia is identified as boar species in present day

Snake in Asia is identified as snake species in present day

*Dinosaur Theropod in Asia is identified as extinct dinosaur species in the Jurassic/Cretaceous Period

White Tiger in Asia is identified as tiger species in present day

Location located: The Southwest of China

Your Innate Self

The fox gives you the creativity and cunning nature to achieve your end goals. The boar gives you the patience, thoughtfulness, and Zen needed to make intuitive decisions. The snake gives you the spontaneous nature needed to change the mood of others. The theropod gives you the introversion needed to give life to others and recharge

Your innate self likes to be creative and cunning. Your innate self likes to be patient, thoughtful, and full of Zen. Your innate self likes to be spontaneous and changeable. Your innate self likes to be alone in nature. Your innate self likes to breathe life and hope into others

This is a butterfly

You are an Asian Butterfly

Butterfly:

Butterflies are native worldwide except for Antarctica. They come in many different colors and sizes. As colorful species, butterflies tend to display a number of colors on their backs and in their environment, and are said to be very colorful in what they like to wear, sometimes to the point of picking out their own clothes for the special occasion, or mood of day, or how they're feeling. As eye catching beauties, butterflies have a knack at being aesthetically pleasing, often to the point of being very attractive, and often will pick out the most aesthetically pleasing person to talk to in the room. They tend to be attracted to aesthetic beauty in others and things, and have an itch for sensual activity. As highly sensual sensitive beings, butterflies gravitate towards what pleases their senses and will often savor such moments, therefore, they tend to daydream a lot and are very imaginative. Their imagination tends to make them very creative individuals, and will often lead them into doing such activities that encourage their creativity. As creativity usually leads to inventive and cleverness, butterflies tend to be very tricky thinkers. Their trickiness often will lead them down to paths of anticipation, which makes them able to anticipate many scenes and scenarios, and may lead them to appear to think on their feet well. Their anticipation of people's motives may lead them to appear to think fast and able to evade situations swiftly. As butterflies are very good at anticipation, they are often highly shrewd, and will often spot deceit or deceptive behavior in others right away. Deceptive behavior has no hiding place in the eyes of the butterfly, and will often be kept in the back of their minds when dealing with such persons. They tend to be very self-sufficient and resilient to manipulation by others, and are usually quite choosy at who they let in, and because of that, they tend to be very quite good at filtering who and what influences them, which makes them strong individualists. Butterflies know how to metamorphosis well, and can change from caterpillar to butterfly within weeks, furthermore, they tend to be very goal oriented and often will set goals for the long term, in phases, rather than for the short term. They tend to be very ambitious in completing their goals or projects, and will often tune out distractions in the process, and because of this, they tend to focus on one project at a time and are not great multitaskers. They tend to focus on one project at a time and not let anyone distract them. They usually will use their long goal term setting to their advantage and will anticipate any or forthcoming motives from others in the process. As masters of anticipation, they tend to dislike surprises, and will often take great measure to removing these surprises from their planning

As long goal setters and masters of anticipation, butterflies have a lot patience and will often wait for the best opportunity to take before taking any action. They like to think things through with care as to make as little mistakes as possible, which may make them appear as slow thinkers. They tend to wait and watch before taking action, if any is needed, and are often great meditators and deep thinkers. Because they are deep creative thinkers, butterflies will often make great analysts. As analysts, they tend to analyze many different scenes and scenarios and opt on how to best anticipate them, even go as far as analyzing the anticipated behavior and reactions of the people. Thus, they are able to analyze and anticipate both in the long run and short run. Because of their analytical and deep thinking skills, they may, at times, have an itch in subjects like mathematics or chess playing. As creatures of meditation, butterflies tend to spend a lot of time on philosophy and are usually full of Zen. They are often silent, down-to-earth, and have a tendency to be very thoughtful, knowledgeable, curious, and open-minded. As silent individuals, butterflies can often be very deceptive of their true nature and will often be very deceitful to those who they don't trust. They are naturally curious and will actively consume information and research whatever intrigues their curiosity. Due to their Zen nature, butterflies may, at times, be susceptible to grief or a lack of self-worth in understanding the world around them and its philosophies if they are not careful. They often make great counselors due to their Zen nature, and will often give any advice to those who seek it. Because of their nature, butterflies often like to spend time in nature, away from human activity. They to hold great value on privacy and will even shut themselves inside for long periods of time, and may even withdraw from society to get such closure. Because of this, butterflies are often solitary and like to do things by themselves. Along with their Zen nature, they are usually quite attracted to ambiance, and the kind of music that goes along with it, and therefore, they have a deep respect of natural ambiance and the seclusion it brings. Their interest in music and ambiance often makes them highly lucid dreamers and idealists with a vivid imagination. This tendency can make them excellent storytellers, and make them deeply emotional beings, with an itch for positive stimuli, and out of this world experience in music and imagination. With this, they may develop a heightened sense of intuition along with a heightened sense of empathy, emotional intelligence, maturity, and ability to connect easily with individuals and animals in nature. This, along with their emotional sensitivity and Zen nature, may make them highly spiritual beings, and have experiences in very vivid spiritual sensations. They are naturally introverted, and usually are drained and dried out easily due to their interactions with unwanted and negative attention because of their low tolerance of them. Because of this, they tend to flutter away from such occasion, especially when they are prolonged

As highly emotional beings, butterflies have a tendency to love deeply and be hurt in the process. They tend to follow their heart and inner compass in making decisions and are usually highly intuitive. As intuitive individuals, butterflies tend to look inwards rather than outwards for the facts, and will rarely cast aside their heart in the process. They tend to be courageous individuals who follow their heart to wherever that may be, even to the point where they listen to no one but their heart. They can be very adventurous, daring, and gentle. As emotional creatures, butterflies are often highly spontaneous. Their spontaneous nature makes them emotional, intuitive, instinctual, and natural. They tend to sway through the emotions of others and the environment around them, picking up emotion like a sponge. They can pick up even the slightest of emotion in others and will even go as far as picking up the emotion of someone who just bumped into them. As such, they tend to be aware of themselves in their surroundings and will often prioritize their energy and appearance for the comfort of others. However, they are highly spontaneous and can easily change from one set of emotion to another, and because of that, they can easily create happiness from sadness. They can easily read the room and change it to their liking. Their spontaneous nature can, at times, change a person's mood almost instantly and can make others envious of them. They are natural creatures with a gift at being spontaneously fun and exciting, and can offer something new almost instantly, which can temporarily make them extroverted and popular. As natural individuals, butterflies have a knack at sensing things around them. They have an unusually strong sense of intuition and instincts that let them sense the air around them and inside themselves. Thus, they can taste the air and adapt as they see fit, and can ready themselves for any future implications and foreseen events in the future. Their high intuition and instincts allows them freedom to listen to their body's needs and energy consumption, and can identify what nutrients needed to maintain themselves in health fitness and adaptability. This nature often can make them extremely fast learners with a strong sense of bodily kinesthetic intelligence

As curious fast learners, butterflies are often able to learn and discover many new and different exciting skills and interests, and are usually very well rounded. Their well-roundedness can make them exceptionally colorful individuals with a determination to succeed. Their colorful nature can make them fit and pursue many different paths and fields of interests. They are often "Jacks of all trades, and masters of none." As creatures of the rainbow, butterflies are often full of happiness and sunshine to those they live with, and are often very positive individuals. They like to breathe life onto others and bring a smile to their faces. Because of this, butterflies are often very attractive individuals and they attract many positive and negative attention from others. They tend to be magnets for other people, and are often taken advantage of and exploited because of their joyful nature, if they are not careful. Their true nature tends to make them attractive and silly individuals who take pleasure in giving others comfort and joy in life, and they often like to bring out the best side of those around them. As joyful creatures, butterflies have a knack at seeing the true side of others due to their shrewdness, and tend to see the darkness and the light in almost anyone they meet. Because of this, they are often highly gifted individuals in psychology and its uses. Their cunning nature along with their high level of empathy, intuition, instincts, emotion, and Zen nature are often highly valued assets for psychology. As experts in psychology, butterflies are often able to identify and seek out others of both high and low empathy and its apathetic variations, and are able to self-diagnose many different psychological disorders because of it. They are able to self-diagnose and anticipate many different personality disorders and their behavior associated with them. Because of this, butterflies are often very afraid of others due to their psychological expertise. They tend to fear the dark in everyone, and expect it in almost everyone they meet, and they will even shut themselves out from others due to their fear of being exposed by dark mentalities. They like to keep to themselves and not let anyone influence them in a dark way. This tendency, along with their level of empathy has a tendency to make them very light individuals with a heightened sense of morality and virtue. They tend to hold out to their virtues, and not let anyone put them down. As beings of high virtue, butterflies gravitate towards giving love and happiness to others, and bringing about positive change into people's lives. Because of this, they tend to be deeply valued in their empathy, humanism, and altruistic approach in life. They tend to seek out positive change and meaningfulness in other people's lives, and believe in the good of all. Because of this, they are often seen as symbols of high virtue and hope in the eyes of others around them. Their lightheartedness tends to make them angels or souls with pure intentions and heartfelt souls

Butterflies are often sought out because of their pure hearts, and are usually taken as pathfinders, angels, and guardians in life. They tend to be empathetic, have faith in humanity, and are often highly altruistic in their approach in life, and because of this, they are often highly protective to the virtues and morality that comes with it. They tend to be defensive about their values and believe in great honor, and will often seek justice to those who wish to do them, or others harm. They are often deeply against the immorals of humankind and will strive for the greater good. Because of their deep sensible nature, butterflies are often called advocates and they are willing to defend and protect the lives of others around them. They like to hold out as activists against immorality and dark-hearted individuals, and often take great pleasure in doing activism. Their advocacy nature tends to make them world shaking individuals who strive for the best of all humanity and the natural world combined. They are often egalitarians who believe in the coexistence of all living things, and will often strive for such visions to be accomplished. As world shaking advocates, butterflies often wield great power, fueled only by the love in their hearts, and because of this, butterflies will rarely use such power only when necessary. They tend to stay true to what they believe in and will often not let anyone take them down. They tend to be honest and have a dislike for lies and liars. As creatures of the light, butterflies will often gravitate towards the fairest of all, and will often flutter towards those, who they believe are worthy. They often boost the courage of others who possess high morality, and encourage those with positive growth in others. Their lightheartedness tends to make them silly individuals who like to make others laugh with a light sense of humor. Because of this,

they are often viewed as adorable loving individuals who embody the cutest of all intentions

As butterflies of South China, they have a tendency to be less critical and analytical than their more western counterparts, and more creative and imaginative. As creativity and imagination encourages more dreamers and storytellers than activists, these butterflies tend to daydream a lot. As advocates, they tend to be more quiet than loud, and would rather advocate behind a screen than in person. They tend to be Zen masters and counselors of relaxation, who like to spend their time in nature in secluded areas rather than around people. Their interests in nature tends to make them spontaneous individuals who enjoy the lightheartedness of the more gentle, kind, and peaceful community. Because of this, these butterflies have a tendency to flutter towards the more feminine individuals than masculine ones, and moreover have similar interests with them. They tend to enjoy activities and listening to music that are often targeted towards the feminine community. Because they are dreamers, counselors of relaxation, quiet advocates, and have feminine tendencies, these butterflies often have wings that are shades of indigo, violet, magenta, and teal

True Calling:

Your true calling is a spiritual healer. As a butterfly, people look up to you for hope and faith in spiritual growth and healing. You know how to look deeply into the person's mind both spiritually and psychologically, and figure out what is wrong. You are talented in counseling others and giving them advice in what they need, and you know how to mend a broken soul or world. As a natural psychologist, you know how to mend the soul, and how to best accompany it in the process of healing. You have the power to give life, harmony, and peace to everyone. You know how to give others divine healing and spiritual growth. You empower them. You tend to know how to counsel for relaxation due to your specialty, and offer courses for these subjects. Your specialty tends to make you more of an online activist who advocates with a light cheery sense of humor, and you often know how to anticipate and make your moves carefully; your sense of justice often gives you the resolution needed for success. You are a spiritual healer in both the worldly and individually sense, and can change the world or the person for the greater good

Gender identity:

The gender identity is an outward reflection of your innate self. Inherited with the modern fox along with your natural element of Jurassic wood*, makes you a fox in the woods. You appreciate the foliage and the seclusion they provide. You like to be creative like the fox. This makes you more likely to enjoy secluded activities that revolve around creativity. You enjoy secluded activities of long hours such as using your imagination, storytelling, and other activities. As a South Chinese fox of the modern era in Jurassic woods, you are attracted to greenery places, specifically deep foliage areas of Jurassic times. As foxes are solitary creatures, you are attracted to being by yourself. As the South Chinese fox of the modern era, you have a natural fear of toxic companionship and exploitation which rules over you. The fox displays fluid qualities. Your energy tends to be balanced in masculinity and femininity. Added to the fox in the woods, this gives you a more casual cute, gender balanced outlook in life

Thriving State:

The thriving state is the state in which you thrive in the best. It is an inward reflection of your innate self. The natural theropod with the inherited element of fire, makes you a theropod on fire. The creative energy of fire brings forth passion, enthusiasm, motivation, and drive into your introversion. This means that you thrive best in passionate, enthusiastic, motivated, and driven introversion in life

Fantasy Creature: The MAJESTIC South Chinese Butterfly-Winged Fairy Fox
(South Chinese butterfly + fox)

Your Chart:

First House of Sense of Self and Ego:

As a butterfly, you have a strong, yet fragile, sense of individuality and uniqueness. Your fragility makes you an easy target for others to manipulate or exploit you into thinking you are someone you are not, yet you are strong enough to push back, and become stronger in the process. You are a strong individual with a strong sense of self in solitude rather than with others, and you easily display a sense of heart rather than that of ego. As the modern fox, you develop your sense of self by yourself than with family or friends. You easily bounce back from exploitation from others, and have a strong sense of individuality. You tend to listen to your heart than your ego. You tend to be spirited and wild and not egotistic

Second House of Property and Possessions:

As a butterfly, you tend to hold no property of your own, and opt for living with others or as a renter. You tend to keep your belongings and possessions to yourself and share not with anyone. As the modern fox, you can be very territorial towards those who you don't get along with, and leave if things get way too out of hand. You tend to not like others touching your stuff or take from you without asking, and you tend to hold small property rather than large ones

Third House of Change and Travel:

As a butterfly, you are very adept to change and can fit in almost any environment. You are a master at internal change and can metamorphosis to fit into any changes throughout your life. Because you are a master of internal change, you excel at change in others, and can metamorphosis anyone to the best version of themselves. You excel at change in others internally to externally, and can change them to better suit the environment. Because of your wings, you are quick to travel, and can travel long distances if needed. As the modern fox, you are very adaptable, and can adept to many changes throughout your life. You tend to change internally rather than externally, and can turn the tide to any changes to your advantage. You excel at blending in your environment, and can change as the environment changes. You tend to be good at travel when needed

Fourth House of Family and Home:

As a butterfly, you hold your family values high, and will set time aside for your loved ones, especially for positive ones. You tend to stick with your family and treat them fairly and squarely, even at the cost of your own expense, however you tend to leave when toxic behavior comes too much to handle. You tend to flutter away from negative interactions or relations with others, and towards positive ones. You tend to be a beacon of light due to your fluttering, and often display the health of the family. You tend to be an indicator of the wellbeing and health of your family, and leave when it gets too toxic for you to handle. As a parent or guardian, you tend to encourage growth and individuality in others. You tend allow them the opportunity to develop their own identities and how they self-identify, and you often take great pleasure in such action. You like others to make their own decisions and learn from their mistakes. You tend to be very protective of those who you have deep positive relationships with, and will even defend them if it means your own downfall. You tend to call those who you have positive relationships with as family, and leave those who do you harm. You call your family your home. As the modern fox, you hold your individuality high over your family's. You like to stick to your own views and values rather than your family's, and learn as you go. You like to take downtime away from your family and will often find yourself in solitude rather than with family members. You like and need to be alone frequently in order to function well in family gatherings. You like to be very helpful when it comes to raising others, and will often be relied upon for such occasions. You like to teach your children and others discipline and how to live on their own. You are often highly territorial about your loved ones and will even defend them if such occasion arises. You tend to call the place home than your family, and will even settle in one place than travel about

Fifth House of Friendship and Relationship:

As a butterfly, you make many and new exciting friends. People often gravitate towards you, and you are often at the center of attention. They often see you as a beacon of light, and are therefore, as someone worth following. They often see you as a person of deep respect and genuine kindness, and they tend to make you popular, even if you don't like it. Your tendency makes you popular due to your own kind nature and natural self, and you tend to bring happiness towards those who follow you. Your charming nature makes others jealous of you, and you tend to be a target for those who are angered by your genuine self and appearance. They are often envious of your truthfulness and honesty, and want vengeance at your social appearance. You are often targeted due to your popularity and genuinity. Because of this, you are often seen in smaller groups of friends than large ones, and you tend to develop friendship over long periods of time than right at the spot. You tend to wait out potential friendship, and for the right time before making said decision in being friends with them or not. You tend to be open and honest towards your friends, and you tend to be sacrificial towards your social status for the comfort of those around you. You often like to make friends with those who you feel have your best interest at heart, and you like to make friends for life rather than for the short run. You like to flutter and make friends with those who you believe has the lightest of hearts. Because of this, you rarely make friends elsewhere once you've gotten your circle. Like friendship, you like to be cautious when developing relationships with others. You tend to wait and learn about them before making said decision, and you rarely make haste to be in such relationships. You like to take your time and explore their interests before making your decision. Furthermore, you like to enjoy light relationships with others than stick with one serious relationship. You like to keep your options open from others and spread your love and happiness with others than share it with a single person. You like to keep your relationships open. Because of this, you are often found in polyamorous relationships rather than monogamous ones. You like to make everyone feel happy and safe rather than one single person. As the modern fox, you like to make friends with as little people as possible, and you shy away from big crowds. You like to keep to yourself and develop friendship online than in person. You tend to not like close and in personal friendship with others and you tend to gravitate over long distance ones. Because of this, you like to keep very few people as friends, and tend to keep them as friends for life. You tend to be open in relationships, and opt for a free for all. You like to have many relationships over serious ones, and you tend to share your love for others rather than for a single person. You like to be polyamorous in your relationships than monogamous, and you like to keep your relationships for life. Although, you are polyamorous, you tend to keep a look out for the one of your life

Sixth House of Spouse and Marriage:

As a butterfly, you like to be in many light relationships than be with a single spouse. You like to have your relationships for life and marriage free. As the modern fox, you tend to secure marriage only for the one of your life. You tend to hold out marriage from others and opt to wait for the one to come into your life. Because of this, you usually opt for other alternatives if you found someone you really like, usually as a polyamorous relationship above all else. You like to be true and honest towards your partner, and you usually like to confide with the best of transparency. You like to keep strong and faithful relationships with your partner, and you tend to be agreeable and solve the problems early on. You usually like to have partners for life and solve the problems early in the relationship rather than later on. Because of this, you tend to live a long and happy relationship life with your partner to the end of your times. You tend to be very supportive of your partner, and opt to agree as one

Seventh House of Health and Fitness:

As a butterfly, you take your health very seriously and you often prioritize it over all others. You like to keep your health and wellbeing in check, and keep it to the maximum. You like to make sure you are healthy and strong both physically and mentally, and you like to make sure you get plenty of rest, if needed. You like to spend a lot of time making sure you are aesthetically pretty, even to the point where you spend too much time on yourself. You like to be physically appealing to others, even if it means sacrificing downtime. You like to eat healthy and stay fit nutritionally, and you like to spend more time on yourself than you do with others. You like to manage your own mental health by yourself, and you like to enjoy your own company. Because of this, you tend to be very mentally healthy, and in yourself. You tend to be very mentally strong and fit by yourself than when you are with others. Likewise, you tend to prioritize your own health than the relationship of others. You tend to keep your health at peak over everything else. Because of this, you tend to keep more time on yourself than you do with others. You like to be mentally and physically fit. You tend to be more fragile than others, and you tend to take counter measures for your fragility. You need to prioritize your wellbeing for the safety of your own brittleness. You tend to be hygienically clean and healthy, even to the point where you ignore your own space for the hygienic cleanliness of yourself. As the modern fox, you tend to be a very picky eater, often to the point where you listen to your body's needs and wants over what everybody else wants. You tend to have a lot of food sensitivities, and you often listen to your body's needs and wants, and know exactly what it needs in order to stay fit nutritionally. You watch what you eat. You tend to be aesthetically pretty and attractive for others, and you like to take the time to pick out your own clothes for aesthetic wear. You like to be aesthetically pleasing for others, and you tend to pick out clothes that match your body type. You tend to be physically fit, and you tend to keep your hygiene to the maximum. You like to be mentally fit and ready for your day. Because of this, you tend to spend more time on yourself than you do on everything else, and you like to boost your own mental health to the maximum. You tend to have a more lean build than your peers

Eighth House of Pleasure and Philosophy:

As a butterfly, you enjoy the light pleasures of others. You like to spend the time spent on yourself than you do with others, and you tend to spend your pleasures of others only on the special occasion. You like to spend more time on yourself than you do with others, and you enjoy the pleasures of solitude it gives you. You tend to be very selfish when it comes to pleasure, often to the point where you sacrifice the needs of others over your own. You like to stick to self pleasure than with somebody else. Because of this, you are often very picky about your own pleasures, and would prefer do things your own way than by others. You tend to stick with self pleasure or light pleasures with others, and you tend to be very playful due to your spontaneous nature. You tend to enjoy spreading love and kindness towards others, and you dislike giving one person all your love. You tend to be very generous of your love with others. You like to make everyone feel loved and happy inside. You tend to take pride in solitude and your ability to take care of yourself, even to the point where you rely on yourself too often. You tend to be a minimalist when it comes to being with others, and you often prefer to do things your own way. You tend to be very prideful of your own self achievements, and you take pride in enjoying your own company. You take pride in doing things for yourself on your own time, and in your own way, and you take the pleasure out of creativity and imagination. You like to enjoy yourself internally through creative thought and imagination. Because of this, you enjoy more internal pleasures than the external ones. You tend to believe in the good of everyone, and opt for the best of all. You tend to believe in empathy for others, and the altruism of all mankind. You believe that everyone has some good in them, even the ones who least display it, and you often believe that everyone deserves the justice that they so rightly deserve. You believe in bringing light and positivity to everyone will bring about peace and harmony to others. You believe in teaching others the value of empathy, altruism, and having the faith of humanity to better the world, and you like to believe that good will always come at the end. As the modern fox, you enjoy the simple pleasures that life gives you. You tend to keep to yourself and enjoy the simple pleasures of solitude and inner peace. You like to enjoy the time spent by yourself than you do with others. Because of this, you are often seen alone than with others and you rarely spend time with others, often to the point where you seek pleasure from no one else but yourself. However, you like to gravitate towards deep pleasurable moments when you are with others, often to the point of high ecstasy. You tend to deepen the pleasure when you are with others to the point where it becomes surreal. Because of this, you are often highly addictive to the pleasures of others, often to the point where it becomes unhealthy. Due to this, you rarely, if ever participate in such activity, often preferring in light activity over others. You tend to keep yourself at a distance when it comes to pleasuring with others, and you easily get addictive, especially when it is in places that you like. You tend to feel deeply towards others, to the point where you feel loved by others too deeply, and become hurt in the process. You tend to love others deeply, and take the plunge when they don't love you back. Because of this, you often develop a high tolerance towards hurt and pain. You tend to be very playful, and you often are an addict to those who love you deeply. You tend to believe in solitude and its values, and you often take pride in it. You tend to believe that everyone will benefit from the wisdom of solitude, and the inner peace it brings. You believe that solitude and the wisdom it brings will bring kindness, love, and understanding to this world, and you often believe that everyone has a rightful place in this world

Ninth House of Career and Duty:

As a butterfly, you bode well in careers that do light labor due to your delicacy. You tend to stick in careers that do light work over hard, and you tend to stray away from hard physical labor if possible. Because of this, you are often found in careers that have little to no physical work. You tend to be more successful in careers that prefer intellectual work. You tend to be well-rounded, and opt for the career that best fits your intellect. You tend to bode well in careers that are or of related to psychology. As such, you tend to enjoy careers of research occupations over others. You tend to be a researcher in your career path. You like doing tasks on your own time and in your own hands over others, and you dislike following protocol from others, especially when you feel it is unnecessary. You tend to like being your own boss and making the rules as you go. You take your duty seriously, and you tend follow your heart over logic. Because of this, you are often found in workplaces that center around using your intuition rather than what is presented to you. You like doing work that uses your intuition and your creative spark and imagination. You are usually found in individual work over others, however, you don't mind working with others if the opportunity arises. You tend to enjoy work with others of similar mindsets as to avoid as much confusion and mistakes as possible. You like to enjoy work with people who are similar to you or by yourself. Because of this, you enjoy work with people of similar interests or of the same field, and same background level as you. You like to flutter with those of your own kind. You tend to dislike having superiors and being a superior, yourself, and you opt for neutral ground with others. You tend to like working in teams if not by yourself. As a supervisor, you stick with a hands-off approach, and opt for observation rather than giving orders. You tend to dislike telling people what to do, preferring for a more advisor approach, and you tend to dislike the workforce hierarchy. As the modern fox, you enjoy individual work, and you usually are a hard worker. You tend to enjoy hard work and offer to do things yourself than ask another. You tend to enjoy work by yourself and ask questions later. Because of this, you are often found in workplaces that asks for individual work with no questions needed. You tend to stick a clear set of instructions of what to do and how to do it, and you enjoy work that offers a more hands-off approach. You like to read a manuscript of how to do things than listen to what somebody else has to say. As such, you tend to enjoy reading documents that offer a more creative touch to things. You like to read manuscripts and directions that allows the freedom and creative thought flow, and you like the flexibility of freelancing

Tenth House of Wealth and Finance:

As a butterfly, you are wealthy in solitude, patience, high virtues, love, kindness, peace, and the moral code. You tend to stick to your morals and not let anyone take you down. You tend to keep faithful and religious to your moral code and high virtues, and you trust others to be so too. Because of that, people often take you for granted, and can hurt you to the extreme. You tend to be deeply vulnerable to other people's motives and intents. However, because of your high virtues, you know when a person is at fault, and you know how to move away from such person. You tend to be extremely resilient to impurity, and you move away quickly. Because of this, you tend to stick to yourself and appreciate the fruits of solitariness. You tend to enjoy solitude and all its gifts. Your appreciation in solitude and the peace it brings you, makes you aware of your presence in others, and the value of honesty and kindness. You tend to be honest and respectful towards others and of yourself, and you expect others to be of you too. Your honesty and kindness makes you a high person of patience and love, and you like to be very patient of yourself and others. This tendency makes you highly gifted in anticipation and cherishable at its best. You tend to cherish your gift in anticipation. You tend to spend more on things, frequently and lightly, and so, you tend to watch what you spend. You tend to watch your budgeting and money flow. Because of this, you tend to be very self-aware of your money habits, however, you tend to be generous when it comes to spending for others, and you will put others first over your own. You tend to spend more on others than yourself. You tend to pay your debts when its due, and you pay fairly and equitably so. You tend to be more generous, modest, and faithful to your debts. You like to be financially strong and stable. As the modern fox, you value your wealth in money, love, luck, peace, kindness, and the feast. You tend to be peaceful and kind to others, and you often take great pleasure in being so. Love and happiness brings you wealth of inner peace, and so, you tend to be very wealthy by yourself and in others. You take your wealth in solitude very seriously, and you tend to stick to the seclusion that comes with it. You tend to be very wealthy in seclusion and solitude, and you often take great pleasure in it. You tend to be very prideful of yourself in solitude, and often take great pleasure in the level of creativity it brings. Your tendency in wealth in solitude often gives you, your wealth of creativity. Because of this, you are often very prideful of your wealth in both solitariness and creativity. You tend to be very wealthy by yourself than with others. You tend to spend your money frequently and freely, and you often put others needs over your own. You like to be very generous towards others, especially to those who you trust. You tend to be generous towards those who you trust, and ungenerous towards those who do you harm. Money comes easily for you, and you often take pride in it, and you usually are very wise in money spending. You tend to be financially stable and wealthy, and you often hold love, luck, and food as part of your wealth as well. You tend to be very wealthy in love and luck, due to your expertise in anticipation and your kind heart, and you often know how to cook very well and prepare your own meals. You know how to eat heartily. You tend to know how to cook for others and love deeply, and you know how to earn deep respect and kindness from those who love you. However, people will always try and exploit your wealth, and are usually easy to spot, due to your shrewdness. You are usually highly resourceful

Eleventh House of Spirituality and Dream:

As a butterfly, you are a highly spiritual and giving person. You tend to know when a person is hurting, and you know how to give others the spiritual healing they deserve. You tend to be highly spiritually to your surroundings and yourself, and you tend to give others the hope and healing they deserve in order to heal. You know how to give others the spiritual hope and guidance necessary to help them heal and grow naturally. You dream big, and you tend to dream for the long run. You tend to hold out onto your dreams as long as possible and make them come true to the best of your ability. You tend to be a dreamer for life, and you tend to dream for the future of yourself and for others. You know how to hold big dreams for yourself and others, and you often gamble for such dreams. You know how to follow your heart and dreams to a fault, and you often make grave decisions because of this. You tend to be risky of your dreams over your life, and you often dream very vividly. As the modern fox, you hold great dignity to your spirituality. You know how to be deeply respectful towards yourself and others, and you often are highly spiritual, yourself. You tend to be very wise, and you often hold great meaning towards yourself. You tend to show great strength and respect towards your spirituality and of yourself. You hold your spirituality above all else. You dream big for yourself and for others, and you tend to have deep respect in your dreams. You tend to dream very spiritually. You are a very vivid and spiritual dreamer, and you often have high hopes in your dreams. Your spirituality in your dreams tends to make you a very faithful person. Because of this, you often are very faithful in your dreams, even if it means sacrificing something else. You tend to follow your dreams above all else, and make big sacrifices. You tend to dream and experience deep emotional and spiritual moments in life

Twelfth House of Fate and Life:

As a butterfly, you often are seen as a symbol for hope and gratitude in life. You tend to bring love, joy, and a peace of mind to others. Others see you as angelic and magical, and others see great potential in you. You are often at the center of attention due to your charisma and charms, and most see great strength in you. You are often seen as a being worth investing in, and you are often used because of it. People often see you as a tool to be used in life, and others see you as great potential. Because of this, you are often at the center of a tug o' war between the good and the bad. People see either good or bad potential in you. Your potential often gives you great power in life, and people tend to admire or fear you because of it. Your power tends to bring those who want to do great harm or good to the world. Because of this, you are often at the mercy of others. However, due to your nature, you tend to choose the good over the bad. You are often at the winds of change, and therefore change the very will of fate, itself. You tend to know how to be a world bringer and can change the very fate of yourself and others with a flip of your thumb. You how to be a master of internal change and can change the world and others as you see fit. You know how to change the world and of others with a twist of your fingertips. Because of this, people often have deep respect towards you, and sometimes even fear you. Others will to try and exploit your power, and will even try and make you less than who you are. People will to try to control you, and they usually will fail in the process. You are often seen as a tool to be used, and therefore of toxic relationship. You often need great support because of this. People often go in and out of your life, and you often seek a great need of validation. Your aloneness tends to be deeply undervalued and invalidated by those who just want to control you, and you tend to lead a loner's life because of it. You tend to live alone or with others and underappreciated. However, due to your spontaneous nature, you tend to bring out the good of people and the best of those around you. You tend to gravitate others who appreciate you, and you tend to be deeply respected by those who love you. Others want your happiness, others want to exploit you in life. You tend to be underappreciated by those who want to just control you in life, and appreciated by those who just want to have joy with you. As the modern fox, you learn how to be safe from the exploitation that others put you through. You learn how to grow, and how to better protect yourself from their exploitation. Your growth tends to make you more in tune in psychology, and thus makes you better at detecting those who wish to do you harm. You tend to sharpen your mind due to your growth and healing, and you often take great pleasure in the psycho readings of those around you. Others find joy and happiness in you due to your charisma and charm, and you tend to sway fate to your liking because of it. You tend to be a magnet for love and due to your charms and happiness, and you like to be very wealthy in love and luck, itself. Your love and luck tends to make you a very happy person in life, and you often hold great special bonds because of it. You tend to love freely in your life, and you often are highly joyful. You tend to be flat out adorable. Due to this, people often will seek vengeance on your happiness and charm due to their own misery. People tend to be very envious of you and will often seek to destroy you and your life. You are often lived for a long and happy life, and you often hold great destiny in your hands due to your luck. You tend have a very wild heart

*The introversion of this dinosaur means that it most likely solitary, and was large enough to ward off smaller predators for protection, yet small enough to fit within the trees. This makes it most likely a Yangchuanosaurus of the Mid Jurassic-Early Cretaceous Period, or Asia's Allosaurus

*Because Yangchuanosaurus' reign consists mainly in the Jurassic Period, the woods are most likely of that period